Blossom

Tatiana

I consider myself to be an outgoing positive person. That is why I chose butterflies to capture my outgoing personality. In other words, I'm a social butterfly. To capture my positive personality, I chose bright pink flowers. I feel flowers give hope. They're an early sign that warmer seasons are coming. Now for the cute animals, I feel I best resemble an adorable rabbit! I'm energetic and gentle just like a rabbit! I also chose many cute creatures in my piece because of my love for the Disney movie Bambi. The reason I named my piece, Blossom is because I haven't always been the positive outgoing person that I am today. It took some time to get to where I am now. I feel very happy with the person I have blossomed into!

Let Dreams Grow
Aley

The world is blank without thoughts and ideas. We all need to dream. The world is empty without you and me. Live, laugh, love, grow. All life deserves the chance to live and grow.

Minimalism of inspiration
Jude

This is a piece derived from lack of inspiration and burnout, I took that, and gave a feeling of space with the yellow background. The large picture gives a feeling of emptiness, while the small one represents the crushing feeling of responsibility and things you need to get done.

Space

Haiden

I included some of my favourite things in this artwork along with things I enjoyed or thought were funny.

Your own Universe

Praxis

Reflected in the Stars

Kai Y.

The aesthetic I wish I had.

All the thoughts of the day at once

Kiki

My artwork represents how at times everything that has been bothering me or I've been thinking about all overwhelms me at once. That's why so many random things are in the art telling people "all the thoughts of the day at once."

Chaos

Diamond G.

It represents how I can't decide what I want to do so that it represents me being indecisive and confusing.
